

Module 10: How to Succeed In This Course

- Which of the keys to success will be a personal challenge and what steps will you take to overcome it?

The keys to success that I think will be a personal challenge are putting in the time, trying things on my own, and keeping up with my self-care. I don't think putting in the time will be an issue, but I do think staying discipline with putting in the time. Honestly, I can not wait to get started with the program and using that eagerness to keep me discipline with my time management will be key. I have already created a plan for putting in twenty-hours a week outside of the classroom. Staying disciplined with this plan will be key.

Additionally, the next key to success for me is trying new things on my own. I think this will be a challenge because of the fear of failing. Like most people, I have the hesitation of trying something new and not having it work. I think that just having confidence that I can eventually get a program to work will be key to overcoming this fear.

Lastly, the final key to success will be to stay on top of my self-care. I really like the programming, and I don't like stopping until I finish a project or solve a problem. This type of drive can lead me to neglect my self-care. The key to overcoming this challenge will be to stay disciplined with my time management. Not neglecting the time I have set aside for my self-care will be just as important as the time I set aside for homework.